

Hey Guilford, has anyone suggested one of those camera speeding ticket set ups for Lincoln Avenue? Looking at the new conceptual, I'm sure the raised structures will work but thinking about how it will look, with a forest of day-glo yellow/green signs on one of the nicest, historic streets in Amherst, it kinda makes me nauseated. Will there be blinking lights too?

It's going to be butt ugly and I don't think people are considering how mucked up our elegant avenue is going to look. Personally, I knew it was a busy street when I moved in. If a camera speeding ticket system could be installed to slow everyone down, I'd be happy leaving the street the way it is. I bet it would save a bunch of money on the installation side and generate a fair bit of revenue.
